Do you enjoy playing shooter games where your life is always on the line? Then this is the game for you! Cavern Crumblers is a fast-paced, team based, action game where your objective is to make sure that you and your team survive. Your objective is to be the first to destroy all of your opponents on a map. You are equipped with a "bullet gun" that will be used to pierce the enemy in their most vulnerable spots and "mine" their army if you dare. Your main weapon is your fire, using fire you will be able to cut down your opponents and set their base on fire. You will also have some grenades that you can deploy strategically to stun your foes and keep them out of your way, or destroy their spawn area! At the end of each map there will be a "crumble zone" that is designated as your enemy's spawn area. Keep in mind that whenever you move through a crumble zone you are considered to be "mining" it, or signing your death warrant. The map features different game modes, ranging from "Free for All" to "Team Deathmatch" Game Modes: Capture the Flag (TF) Team Deathmatch (TD) Capture the Stash (CTS) Free for All (FFA) Team Scoreboard (TSB) All of the maps in the game are played on a "hard setting" and will have crumbly areas appear and respawn after each victory. The class is: .show-for-all-users I use this class to assign a grey background to all of my DIVs. When I want to assign an image, I do the following: `$(document).ready(function() { $('#mydiv').addClass('show-for-all-users'); });` This works great. Unfortunately, if I want to assign a background-image to a div that is later hiding its content, it assigns it to the parent DIV, even if I call `removeClass` later. To me, that sounds like a limitation in the code. Is there a way to dynamically assign a background-image to a div? Thanks. A: `$('#mydiv')-- find all div with id of mydiv .show-for-all-users-- highlight the element Add or removeClass, just assume it happens only once. $('#mydiv').addClass('show-for-all-users'); $('#mydiv').removeClass('show-for-all-users'); : C` why people are talking that this is the best movie online website where we download the latest and newest movies that are not available in the market: what we want is free movies, online movies, full movies and scenes and no popup advertisements! and offers unlimited download speed and free?

A: Put whatever links you want into the src of the img tag. This is called self-closing element, and as long as the closing is in the source, the browser will interpret the content as img element. April 23, 2014 5 min read Opinions expressed by Entrepreneur contributors are their own. If your headline focused on the events, the people or the primary points of discussion, chances are there were any of these things you encountered: A storm that lasts many days A killer earthquake that flattens buildings A death the tragic loss of a loved one Your headline included a lot of those words and phrases because you did not have a choice; it was all you had. The people and events were inescapable, because they had control over the headlines. And from a business success perspective: The one who published you had control over the focus of the discussion. If this is how it was, now is the time to stop
