======================= Gameplay focuses on the player guiding his character along a set path while branching dynamically depending on his interaction with objects, crowds, and events that occur in-game. There are no puzzles in this game, apart from a few that fall under the "Riddle category." Most puzzles involve manipulating objects in the world, pushing buttons and turning dials to progress and to interact with things in the environment. The physical puzzles are conveniently distributed in the different areas of the game and your main task will be to find the solution to them. In the narrative puzzle you will be given a series of riddles that you need to solve in order to unlock the full story. They are written in a unique language that uses a variety of visual and auditory cues and are accompanied with riddles. Key features: - Choose from 4 different acts - Full immersion experience in a visually realistic setting - Eerie atmosphere - a variety of game elements designed to heighten the senses. - Vivid images based on fairytales, paintings, and popular culture - Unique "Riddle" puzzles that require interpretation - Unique VO and Audio that creates a strong, creepy and unusual ambience - Epilogue that opens up further topics and questions - 5 acts to

, BNA, Raygen, and More Before we dive into the 5E column, I figured I would actually comment on this month. This will be particularly close to my heart simply because it deals with the one and only, Alagoran's Gem, and even won't touch it. It was hard to come up with five out of my countless event ideas and then decided that Alagoran's Gem was the one to make it all happen. Actually, the thought was to take a step back from the 5E column and do something different. The intent to use these conversions for a campaign and with or without PF is still the plan as I'll just run it on the side for our D&D group. However, here's what happened to get me thinking of it. Alagoran's Gem Race - Human Starting Magus Level – 1 / 2 / 3 / 4 / 5 Classes - Sorceror, Magus, Warlock Starting Gold - 520gp Attributes – Strength, Wisdom Cost - Can purchase from "At the Table" Resources – Shocking +2, Highly Transitive +1 Starting Stamina – 3 Attributes – Intelligence, Charisma Starting Treasure – 400gp Resources – Resistances +2 Starting Treasure – 65 gp Race - Goblin Starting Magus Level – 1 / 2 / 3 / 4 / 5 Classes - Sorcerer, Warlock Starting Gold - 140gp Attributes – Strength, Wisdom Cost - No Resources – Offensive +2, Highly transitive +1 Starting Stamina – 2 Attributes – Strength, Intelligence Starting Treasure – 400gp Resources – Resistances +2 Starting Treasure – 65 gp For these conversions, I decided not to use the 5e Transmute Metals mechanic, instead, I set the gold starting amount and costs into the 50s range and act like a standard Dwarven metal for the 10gp-25gp range. I figured the gemstone aspect would be too daunting for new players, so I set the range of the Gifted Object type to 1/4 gp-12gp. Purchasable from the Dungeon Master's Guide: Gems and Gemstones Converting the Gifted Object with a Cost Such as, an Amber or a
